

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

Wisconsin Currency in Chicago.

Mr. Crosby, the cashier of the Rock County Bank, received the following despatch at noon to-day:

Chicago, April 4th.

Forty-two (42) Wisconsin banks thrown out this morning. J. H. Bruch & Co. Mr. Crosby thinks that all the banks are "wild cat," owned in most cases by irresponsible parties living in and out of the state. It will be well for the holders of any Wisconsin money to await further news, as in no case will the loss be more than 20 cents on the dollar on any of the bills thrown out. The whole number of banks in the state is 110, leaving 68 whose bills are not discredited, and whose securities with the bank controller are ample for the redemption of all their bills, or whose owners are abundantly responsible in case of the failure of the securities.

P. S. The telegraph this afternoon (3 o'clock) brings us the following list of the banks thrown out:

To be REPEATED.—The concert of Mrs. Deming will be repeated this evening at Lappin's Hall. We have heard several who were present express themselves well satisfied.

Lost.—A package of bank bills amounting to fifty dollars was lost, yesterday afternoon, on this forenoon, in this city. The finder will be suitably rewarded by leaving it with L. F. Patten, esq., Janesville, April 24, 1861. d3.

REMEMBRANCE.—A correspondent of the Milwaukee Wisconsin, in a letter written on the train, March 31st, between Madison and Milwaukee, thus compares the present time with the time eighteen years ago:

Eighteen years ago this day I left Madison for home, having received leave of absence for ten days. I looked at the journal of the house of representatives for 1853, and find it so recorded. At that time the stages for Milwaukee went via Janesville, and started from Madison in a westerly direction, to get around what was called "Dead Lake," a circuit of some five or six miles further than the present highway. There were some dozen houses between Madison and Janesville, and we crossed Rock river at "Hume's," and thence to Janesville on the east side of the river, where the stage stopped for the night. Janesville, on the west side of the river, was a nice village, all but the houses, not one of which had yet been erected.

THE FIRST SIGHT.—The Milwaukee News of yesterday morning says:

GOOD NEWS FROM JANESVILLE AND RACINE. These hitherto strong republican cities have both elected democratic mayors. Three cheers for their indomitable democratic hosts.

There will be more just such shouting before we hear the last of it.

ATTENTION, LIGHT GUARD!—There will be a special business meeting of the Light Guard this (Thursday) evening at half-past 7 o'clock. Matters of interest to every member require attention, and each one is expected to be in attendance, and punctually, too. H. A. PATTERSON, Cap'n.

J. B. KIRK, Sec'y.

ANOTHER REMOVAL.—Woodward has removed his tobacco and cigar store into the rooms formerly occupied by the Central Bank. Puffers and chewers will always find a No. 1 article in his store.

Perrine's Panorama of the Holy Land is in town, and will be on exhibition at Lappin's Hall, commencing to-morrow evening.

EVERYBODY SOLD.—A fruitless search has been made to-day for the man that didn't get sold on the "cracked mirror" at the Albany restaurant yesterday, by way of reminder of the last of April. By means of soap marks, an exact imitation was made of a heavy blow upon the mirror, and numerous cracks diverging from the spot. The mirror is a large, elegant one, and the first remark of everybody on seeing it, was, "Why, Jimmy, who broke that mirror?" A laugh from those present at once explained everything, and the second remark would be, "Boys, what'll you drink?" It was the best sell of the season.—Wisconsin.

Several facts are apparent in the above. First, "everybody" in Milwaukee drinks; second, everybody got sold; third, the restaurant did a "crack" business; fourth, everybody uses a stereotype expression; fifth, everybody had money to treat with; sixth, that everybody was "cracked" worse than the mirror; and lastly, the Wisconsin man was among the victims.

Hon. Sherrard Clemens publishes a card in the Wheeling papers positively declining, on account of family engagements, to be a candidate for re-election to congress.

The Louisville Journal says there are two Johnsons in Tennessee—Brave Johnson and Cave Johnson. Brave is not Cave, and Cave is not Brave.
